Records for Repose

Q. My husband is a corpsman aboard the hospital ship U.S.S. Repose, now off the coast of Vietnam. The men have a jukebox in their recreation room, but desperately need records. Can Action Line put me in touch with a record manufacturer or supplier in Long Beach so I can buy the men some good used records? Mrs. G. D. B., Long Beach.

A. We'll do better than that. Bill and Gary Thompson, owners of Thompson Coin Machine Co., 1551 E. Wardlow Road, say they'll be glad to send the crew of the Repose about 100 up-to-date jukebox records. Bill Thompson will mail the discs himself, and he says your husband should receive them within a few days.

Vitality at 'Free' College

Q. I'd like some information about the experimental college at California State College at Long Beach. Can you tell me who's sponsoring the college, what courses are offered and who is eligible to take them? K. L. C., Long Beach.

A. State College's experimental college, which began last fall, is completely financed and conducted by the Associated Students of the college and has no formal connection with the regular academic program, says Bob Wells, public relations director at CSLB. The students who set up the experimental college prefer this detachment, feeling they have more freedom to plan and construct their own courses. The aim of the experimental college, which was one of the major achievements of last year's student government, is simply to give an outlet to students who feel certain subjects are being neglected by the regular college. Courses are open only to registered students, and no academic credit is given. This year's courses include a seminar on drug abuse, a class in sensitivity training and a philosophical inquiry on the equality of man. For more information, call the Associated Students office at 433-0951.

800 Jars on Way!

Q. Art students in my class at Woodrow Wilson Senior High School are in great need of about 800 clean baby-food jars so they can store tempera paints. It's important the jars have lids, but I don't even know where to start looking for so many. Could you possibly help me find them? E. I. T., Long Beach.

A. You bet. Approximately 800 small glass jars, all clean and capped, are on the way to your school, thanks to an assist from a large baby-food company. Other companies were eager to help your students, but couldn't because their jars were topped with lids which are stamped rather than screwed on.

Boat Decal Custom Made

Q. We have a new boat made by Dolphin Sailboat Co., which the children have named "Flipper" after the star of the television show. We've been looking for two of the company's dolphin decals to put on the boat, but have been unable to find them. Can you give any help? Mrs. M.O., Anaheim.

A. Company dolphin decals aren't available now, says a spokesman, but should be by March when a new shipment comes in for the beginning of the 1968 boating season. However, Harold Coon of Bilt Rite Sailmakers, 1342 W. Eleventh St., will make a dolphin sticker for you from colored sailcloth if you'll contact him at his office and tell him the design you want. For the kids, ACTION LINE is sending you a picture of Flipper, thanks to Bill Stein of National Broadcasting Co.

Cycling Law Defined

Q. Can you tell me if it's against any law to drive a motorcycle between two lanes of traffic going the same way? I've been told it's illegal, but I've seen police doing it. R. T., Long Beach.

A. A study of this common practice has been made by Sgt. Gil Smith, motor officer for the Long Beach Police Department, who says there is nothing in the state vehicle Code prohibiting a motorcyclist from scooting between lanes. However, Smith adds, Section 21658 of the code says a vehicle should be driven "as nearly as practical" within a single lane and shouldn't change lanes unless "such movement can be made with safety." Smith says road safety rules—including consideration of space between vehicles, speed of traffic and road conditions—should be taken into account by any motorcyclist thinking of driving between lanes. But many times it's safer for a cyclist to pass other vehicles between lanes than trying to pass them on the outside, he says.

SOUND OFF!

On Aug. 24, members of a girls' canoe club were guests of the Sea Scouts aboard the ship Marion Jane Bayne for a four-day "fluff" cruise. The highlight of the sailing was to have been street dances at Avalon, which abruptly canceled just before we arrived. What could the dance officials have been thinking of? Surely they must know the street dances are a most popular attraction at Catalina, since youths can't afford expensive entertainment after paying for transportation to Avalon and for food. Even when these dances aren't canceled, I understand they stop at 10 p.m., which seems a little early as long as they're supervised. I'm certainly not one advocating we turn everything over to young people, but events like dances at least keep them out of trouble. I hope the dances will be reinstated, or else next year our 40 young people will go elsewhere to spend our money and have a good time. Mrs. J. W., Long Beach.

REACTION

I'd like to respond to K. B. of Long Beach who wrote in asking if Long Beach police were thinking of getting a helicopter. K. B., you're lucky your city doesn't have a "big brother" spy in the sky. I think your city officials and police officers are intelligent and practical when they say a helicopter would be too expensive for the city. I am one who would like to do away with the noisy, peeping helicopter Lakewood has now. L. B., Lakewood.

JACK'S BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Kirschke's Invalid Brother Arrives

By MARY NIESWENDER

The brother who "had been a father" to Jack Kirschke—from the time their father was killed on their Oklahoma farm to the time Jack married the woman he is now accused of murdering—faced his former ward in court Friday.

In a dramatic scene, the elder Kirschke, partially invalidated, strained to pull himself to his feet from a wheelchair as he saw his gaunt brother approach. (He has been confined to a wheelchair since a heart attack two years ago.)

Kirschke, who was putting on his jacket after deputies removed his handcuffs, spotted his brother as he walked through the door. He walked swiftly toward the spectators' rail, then hesitated.

By this time, Paul Kirschke had struggled to his feet, and holding onto a brace with one hand, held out the other to greet his "kid brother."

Kirschke, who is not allowed to touch anyone, pleaded with deputies to allow him to shake his brother's hand. They agreed and Kirschke grabbed the white haired man's outstretched hand.

He was able to mutter, "Hi Ski. How are you?" before he broke into tears. The elder Kirschke's mouth drooped and tears ran down his face.

Relatives, who had accompanied the elder Kirschke to court, stood with their heads bowed, obviously moved by the scene. Mrs. Dorothy Fear, who has been one of the constant spectators at her brother's trial, broke into sobs.

The drama was enacted during noon recess in the closed courtroom of Superior Court Judge Kathleen Parker as spectators crowded against locked doors to be first in line for good seats, and newspaper and television reporters wandered the corridors awaiting start of the afternoon session.

Kirschke's son, Doug, who has missed only one day of the trial thus far—and that was Thursday—arrived at the courtroom in

Legality of Note Doubted

Officers Seized Paper Without Search Warrant

By SHERM WILLIAMS

Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris and defense attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey slugged it out verbally all Friday afternoon over whether Elaine Terry Kirschke's "live together, but sleep alone" note should be admitted into Jack Kirschke's Superior Court murder trial in Los Angeles.

Ramsey contends Long Beach police did their duty when they crawled through a window and into the Kirschke duplex apartment in Naples April 9 after they were told there was a body inside.

And, Ramsey said, they were legally correct in studying the death scene.

BUT, HE contends, they were wrong in taking the note from a dresser drawer without either a search warrant or permission from Kirschke, suspended deputy Los Angeles County district attorney.

Harris retorted that the police, at that time working on a theory that it might have been a murder-suicide, were in their rights in checking for a possible suicide note.

In fact, Harris said, if they hadn't looked at the note, "They should have been fired."

Judge Kathleen Parker delayed until Monday her decision on whether the note should be admitted as evidence.

TODAY, KIRSCHKE, observes his 46th birthday—one week into his actual trial for the murders of his 43-year-old wife and her lover, Orville William Drankhan, 41.

So far pretrial hearings, selection of a jury and then testimony in the trial itself have extended through 26 days, two days into the fifth working week of the court.

When Harris launched the trial with his opening statement Sept. 7, predictions were it would take from four to six weeks before the case goes to the jury.

Thus far, the pace has been slower than a witness a day. Six have testified so far, and the prosecution still has 33 on its list.

RAMSEY HAS not revealed how many witnesses he might call.

Friday afternoon, shortly after court resumed, Long Beach Police Inspector Garold E. McIntire was released from the stand after testifying Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning.

The possibility remains that McIntire could be called for additional questions about Mrs. Kirschke's note, which he extracted from Kirschke's dresser drawer.

Otherwise, according to an order of witnesses drawn up by Harris—but not strictly followed until (Continued Page A-5, Col. 1)

'Mary' Sails Today on Last N.Y. Trip

By GRANVILLE J. WATTS

LONDON (AP) — The Queen Mary sails to New York for the last time today and the Atlantic will be a little emptier without her.

The 81,000-ton, three-funnelled Cunarder will be packed to capacity with 1,500 passengers, many of them Americans who flew to Britain especially to make the historic last regular-service journey.

When the liner completes her round-trip to New York and back, she'll be tidied up for her final voyage Oct. 31 around Cape Horn to her new home in Long Beach.

The California city, which bought the 31-year-old ship for $2.5 million on Aug. 18, is using the trip to her new home as a gala holiday cruise, with stops in some of the world's most glamorous ports.

The glamor won't end when the cruise is over, however. Long Beach will then convert the massive vessel into a marine museum with a hotel and shops which are expected to lure tourists from far off.

When the Queen Mary has completed her final round trip, she will have

Medi-Cal Cutback Blocked

SACRAMENTO (AP) —

The Reagan administration formally was prohibited Friday from imposing its planned $210-million medical care program for the poor.

The judgment by Superior Court Judge Irving H. Perluss means that 1.5 million Californians eligible for Medi-Cal—most of them on welfare—are entitled to the basic services that existed before the state announced its cutbacks last month.

The attorney general's office gave formal notice it would appeal the decision.

Perluss' judgment Friday carried out in detail his opinion and injunction of Sept. 6 prohibiting the state from making the cuts. He said the state failed to follow the right legal guidelines.

DEPUTY ATTY. Gen.

Richard Mayers made a last ditch attempt during a four-hour hearing Friday to get the order eased. The state contends it is losing $500,000 for every day it is prevented from trimming back Medi-Cal services.

During the morning, Perluss indicated he would permit the state—under one section of law—to go ahead with its cutbacks.

But later, Perluss said another section of law made the cuts clearly illegal.

McNamara OKs Limited Network

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The United States has decided to deploy a limited missile defense around the entire country. The defensive net will be designed to thwart a relatively small number of intercontinental ballistic missiles that Communist China is expected to possess by the early 1970s.

It would also afford some protection against an accidental or unauthorized launch of a handful of missiles from the Soviet Union.

The administration's decision is expected to be announced by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara Monday in a speech before a group of United Press International editors in San Francisco.

The decision was reached after months of debate within the administration. There was some reluctance to move ahead with the Nike-X antimissile defense for fear it might trigger another upward spiral in the arms race with the Soviet.

In an effort to prevent such a development, President Johnson attempted to get negotiations going earlier this year with Soviet leaders on the possibility of mutual limitations on both offensive and defensive missiles.

PENDING THE outcome of such talks, the President asked—and received—$377 million in standby funds from Congress for a start on Nike-X deployment.

But the Soviet has been reluctant to start talks in earnest, arguing that the climate was not propitious during the Vietnam War and that defensive missiles, which they have already started to deploy, really threaten no one.

McNamara is expected to argue Monday that the decision to go forward on a very limited missile defense should not in itself preclude a strategic weapons agreement with Russia.

The so-called "thin" Nike X defense decided upon would not prevent the Soviets, in an all-out attack, from killing tens of millions of Americans. By the same token, in the opinion of American strategists, the more than 1,700 strategic missiles in the American arsenal could easily overwhelm the relatively small missile defenses installed to date in the Soviet Union.

Thus, in this view, the nervous balance of power between the two superpowers would be maintained. Each should, despite small-

Goldberg, Gromyko to Huddle

New York Times Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

—Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg will discuss a United Nations role in ending the war in Vietnam with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Sen. Joseph S. Clark disclosed Friday.

Gromyko will arrive in New York late next week to attend the 22nd General Assembly meeting. A conference between the Soviet foreign minister and the chief U.S. representative is likely to be held soon after Gromyko's arrival.

According to Clark, Goldberg is continuing "intensive efforts" to determine in consultation with other heads of missions what role, if any, the U.N. can usefully play in bringing the war to an end.

SPEAKING at a news conference at the U.S. mission, the Pennsylvania Democrat emphasized that no recommendation to the State Department on United Nations help in peace-making would be made until after Goldberg talked to Gromyko and other prominent participants in the General Assembly.

Clark, one of the Senate's leading doves, said he did not believe a U.N. initiative would be useful or successful. A "more fruitful ap-

GIs Go Ashore, Root Out Cong

SAIGON — Sporadic fighting broke out today in the muddy Mekong Delta where about 2,000 U.S. soldiers stormed ashore Friday to battle an elite force of about 500 Viet Cong guerrillas. In the first day's fighting 56 enemy were killed in the river and canal-laced Viet Cong stronghold. U.S. losses were reported at five killed and 101 wounded. The battle pitted three U.S. Army battalions against a Viet Cong battalion believed to be the 263rd main force battalion. In the air war over North Vietnam, American bombers struck Friday at railroad yards and fuel dumps ranging from 14 miles north of Hanoi to 49 miles north of the Communist capital. The closest strike reported saw U.S. Air Force Phantom jets pounding the Dong Thon rail siding 14 miles north of Hanoi. Navy fliers from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf concentrated on North Vietnam's panhandle in the southern half of the country, hitting at coastal defense sites and supply boats and barges.

U.S. Builds Korea Fence

SEOUL — The U.S. Army is building an anti-infiltration barrier in the 18.5-mile American-held sector of the Korean demilitarized zone, the New York Times Service reports. A spokesman for the U.S. Eighth Army said the barrier has been under construction for "about a couple of months." He declined to disclose, for security reasons, any details, including whether it would have electronic detection devices similar to the system planned in Vietnam. The barrier is "something like a chicken wire fence" put up in a firelane just outside the southern boundary of the 2.5-mile-wide buffer zone. Observation towers will be built at intervals. At one point, near the U.N. command armistice base camp on the road to Panmunjom, a fence of six-inch steel pipes about 10 to 12 feet high entangled with barbed wire was seen under construction.

A similar fence across Vietnam, it was revealed, is being delayed by North Vietnamese artillery, rocket, mortar and sniper fire. American Marines are laying barbed wire along the barrier zone for barely three hours each day. The rest of the time they are ducking the incoming fire of Communist batteries with fire of their own. The only noticeable progress is the construction of some barbed wire barricades and mine fields at the Marine outpost of Con Thien.

Fierce 'Doria' Swirls to Maryland, Virginia

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Hurricane Doria, seething with 90-mile-an-hour winds and goaded by a sister storm, swirled rapidly Friday night along an unprecedented path toward the Virginia-Maryland coast.

Emergency warnings of high tides, dangerous flooding and destruction of homes were in effect from Norfolk, Va., to Manassquan, N.J., but the New York metropolitan area was expected to escape the hurricane's fury with no more than the buffeting of gusty winds and some showers.

Flooding today along the Jersey coast, in the estimation of Weather Bureau forecasters, will equal the severity of that of a storm in March, 1962, which claimed a dozen lives and left an estimated $85 million in damage in its wake. Hurricanes Beulah and Chloe completed the triple

Rail Unions Due 11% Pay Boost

WASHINGTON — A White House board recommend a compulsory $158-million wage package for 137,000 railroad workers. The industry branded it "clearly inflationary." The board's recommendations, praised by President Johnson, would give the rail shopcraft workers a two-year total of 11 per cent in general wage hikes plus 20 cents an hour in special skill increases for most of them. Johnson called the board's recommendations in the sticky rail dispute "one of the finest products" ever handed down by a presidential panel. The wage hikes set by the board will become mandatory in 30 days unless the railroads and six shopcraft unions reach a voluntary agreement. A voluntary settlement is viewed as highly unlikely. The board's recommendations gave the unions in large measure what they had demanded, but cut down the initial cost by spreading the pay raises over two years.

Hope in Teacher Strikes

Efforts aimed at ending crippling teacher strikes in two of the nation's giant school systems were under way Friday as Detroit teachers agreed to vote on binding arbitration and both sides in the New York dispute agreed to renew peace talks. Leaders of striking Detroit teachers set a Sunday vote on whether to accept binding arbitration of their salary dispute, despite shouts from some teachers to "turn it down now."

In New York, the contempt trial of President Albert Shanker and his two top aides in the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers was adjourned and peace talks renewed today with Mayor John V. Lindsay taking part.

Ford Strike Continues

DETROIT — The United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. admitted Friday they are at least one week, probably a lot longer, away from tackling the main issue that triggered the nationwide strike against Ford. The company, its 93 installations in 25 states killed by the walkout, said it was preparing for a "long strike." Both sides met Friday for a little more than two hours and agreed to begin a series of meetings next week.

Churchmen Ask Bomb Halt

ATLANTA — The National Council of Churches' general board concluded a two-day business session Friday by adopting a militant civil rights program and calling for an end to U.S. bombing in Vietnam. The board also put out a peace feeler in hope of improving relations with conservative and fundamentalist church groups. Many fundamentalist churches in the nation have turned their back on the council because of its civil rights programs. A resolution passed by the general board asked for "clarification of the issues" that have caused the split. In Seattle, the executive council of the Episcopal Church in the U.S. overwhelmingly adopted a major policy change designed to put the power of the church behind efforts to alleviate conditions of ghetto Negroes. Bishop John E. Hines said he was convinced the general assembly, which opens sessions Sunday, would approve the plan which calls upon the predominantly white congregation to "reconsider its position."

Steel Mills Choked Off

PITTSBURGH — A violence-marked strike by independent truckers slowly-strangled eastern steel mills Friday. Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. delayed starting a new blast furnace and planned to close down two others next week. U.S. Steel Corp. said the situation "is getting more serious every day."

Youngest U.S. Soldier, 13, Gets Boot

Combined News Services

The U.S. Army's youngest recruit was back home with mother Friday. "I guess I'll just have to wait a few years," said school-boy Richard Lewis, 13.

Richard told U.S. Army officials he was 18 and was signed up at a London recruitment office Tuesday. He got within two hours of being flown to the U.S. before his true age was discovered.

The boy was born at Tinker Air Force Base, Midwest City, Okla., but brought to England with his older brother Lloyd when a year old. Richard used his brother's birth certificate when he presented himself at the U.S. Army's recruiting office in London. The boy passed a test for potential officers and was taken on as a rookie.

Now it's back to school and his newspaper delivery route — $2.80 a week.

RAP MOVES

Black Power leader H. Rap Brown was transferred from Richmond, Va., city jail to the Virginia Prison Farm in rural Powhatan County Friday night at the request of worried city officials. The transfer was aimed at averting further incidents outside the city lockup, where pickets matched and groups of Negroes taunted police and hurled rocks Thursday night and early Friday morning.

COSTLY

The National Science Foundation has withheld a $247,900 grant to a University of California at Berkeley mathematics professor because of his criticism of the war in Vietnam.

Rep. Richard L. Roundbush, R-Ind., announced Friday he was instrumental in having the foundation reconsider its plan to award the grant to Dr. Stephen Smale. Roundbush had sharply criticized the foundation last year for giving a $91,500 grant to Smale to allow him to attend the International Congress of Mathematicians in Moscow.

While there, Smale denounced American foreign policy at a news conference attended by Communist reporters. The foundation blamed Smale's record as an administrator in rejecting the request.

Military planes dropped leaflets in Bolivia Friday offering a reward of 50,000 Bolivian pesos—$4,100 dollars—"for the person of Ernesto (Che) Guevara dead or alive—preferably alive." The Cuban is suspected of fomenting revolution in Bolivia.

FICTION

Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday dismissed as "complete fiction" a report that his executive secretary, Philip M. Battaglia, quit because of a disagreement over strategy to elect Reagan president. "There is nothing to it," Reagan told a newsman at Sacramento airport before he boarded a plane for a weekend trip to Los Angeles.

ONE LEFT

From the dozen Egyptian officers who plotted the overthrow of the pudgy, wastrel King Farouk of Egypt in 1952, a triumvirate emerged, and of the three only President Gamal Abdel Nasser remains in power. The last to fall was Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, who played a sort of boy-wonder role in the dictatorial republic that replaced the monarchy of Farouk's Mohammed Ali dynasty. Cairo announced Friday that Amer, recently accused of plotting to overthrow Nasser, had committed suicide by poison.

The first of the triumvirate to go was Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib, front man in the final, fateful confrontation with Farouk before he abdicated and sailed off into exile in Italy, where he died. When Naguib's popularity became a threat to Nasser's own power, the older man was put under house arrest in a Cairo suburb and kept in confinement for years. In recent times he has been allowed to roam a bit away from home.

FREED

Heinrich Himmler's former chief chemist Friday left a Stuttgart, Germany, courtroom a free man after being found guilty of aiding and abetting murder in at least 29 cases and being sentenced to 6½ years at hard labor.

Albert Widmann, 55, who had been a major of the Nazi SS (Elite Guard), had served 23½ years of a former conviction on similar charges and one year pre-trial imprisonment also was deducted. For the remaining two years he was put on probation.

Court President Wolfgang Fischer said in his summing up Widmann's experiments of killing mentally ill persons by detonating dynamite charges or funneling car exhausts into the interior of closed trucks had been murder even under Nazi law.

WINNERS

A Los Angeles jury Friday awarded $200,000 to two men who claimed the idea for the television series "Sea Hunt" was stolen from them.

Victors in the suit against United Artists Television Inc. were Frank Donohue, 57, a World War II frogman who lives at Santa Monica, and writer Richard C. Ross, 53, West Los Angeles.

In another case, CBS was sued for $10 million Friday by a writer who claimed her television series format was later copied without her consent. Beverly Y. Carrington, Santa Monica, charged the Smothers Brothers television series copied her idea.

CONVICTED

A Saigon criminal court judge convicted Truong Dinh Dzu, South Vietnam's presidential runnerup, in absentia Friday and sentenced him to nine months in prison for writing a bad check and illegally sending money to a bank account in San Francisco. Dzu, who refused to obey an order to appear in court, was making an anti-American speech before university students at the time.

CLEARED

Charges that a college-educated San Francisco taxicab driver slugged an Internal Revenue Service agent were dismissed Friday in U.S. Dist. Court.

Vincent B. Lynch, 42, was accused of striking IRS agent Darrell Simmons, 59, for calling him a "black nigger." Lynch denied hitting Darrell but testified that he slammed a door in his face.

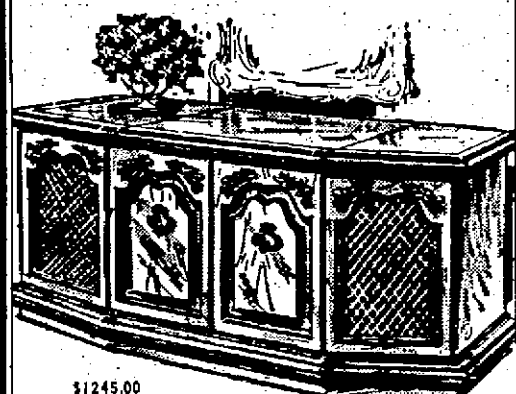

The jury was unable to agree.

County Fair Sports A Bit of Everything

Fifty thousand fairgoers can't be wrong — the "Granddaddy of County Fairs" is bigger and better than ever.

And the 1967 version of the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona proved it offers visitors just about everything that can be crammed into a massive fairgrounds.

It has an official queen, Katherine (Kit) Heberlein, 20, of South Gate, a student of California Polytechnic Institute at Pomona... and a bevy of six princess-hostesses to aid her.

It has 13,249 (by actual count) categories of items on exhibit in the form of food, arts, crafts, animals, toys and living guys and dolls who perform myriad tricks and feats of skill or artistry.

Nearly 7,000 competitors are entered in contests for a total of $277,286 in cash prizes and numerous trophies, plaques, ribbons and lesser forms of recognition.

The 40th annual L.A. County Fair may be an old-timer, but many of this year's attractions are as modern as pop art (there's plenty of that on hand, too).

There is, for example, an Interior Design Showcase — by six prominent interior decorators' "dream rooms." The Art in Action show features working craftsmen and artifacts of Peru.

Then there are the Worlds of Education, Science U.S.A., Junior Fair, Storybook Farm, Kiddie Corral, Golden Empire Mine, Court of the Redwoods, Sports Plaza and loads of et ceteras — something for everybody from toddlers to dodderers.

Opening free grandstand show, continuing today and Sunday, features the first California performance of the Wenatchee, Wash., Youth Circus of daring aerial acts.

There'll be thrills and rough action from the rodeo ring Monday through Friday, with top bronc busters, ropers and bull riders bying for money and national championship points.

More than 1,500,000 visitors are expected for this year's 17-day fair — fortunately not all at once, even though there's parking for 45,000 cars (and scores of buses) daily.

Division of Highways Seeks $200 Million for Southland

The California Division of Highways expects to seek a budget of $200 million for three southern counties in the 1968-69 fiscal year, a news conference was told Friday in Los Angeles.

State Engineer John Legarra said this sum, for construction and rights-of-way expenses, would be proposed for Orange, Ventura and Los Angeles counties. The present allotment is about $190 million.

Legarra called the news conference to introduce Haig Ayanian, who will become district engineer Oct. 2. Ayanian has been stationed in the San Francisco bay area.

Specific projects were not discussed in detail, but Legarra said the greatest emphasis in 1968-69 will be placed on Foothill Freeway, due for completion in 1973.

He also said, in answer to a question, that the highway division is doing all it can to reduce red tape in the dispersal of gasoline tax funds for city and county road projects. He said further that should gasoline tax funds become involved in rapid transit development, this would obviously affect the financing of freeway projects.

Asked if there has been a slowdown in freeway work due to less available funds, Legarra answered affirmatively. However, he added that this has been caused chiefly by inflationary conditions.

Legarra said he had noted improvements in the public's attitude toward freeway routings, which may cause some inconvenience but which are necessary to meet factors of engineering and traffic flow.

CHANGE OF SKIPPERS

Cmdr. Richard O. Gooden (left) assumed command of the destroyer USS Orleck Friday at Long Beach Naval Station. The outgoing skipper, Cmdr. Frank G. Zinsler (right) has drawn a staff assignment with a Norfolk, Va., amphibious squadron. Cmdr. Gooden comes from the destroyer USS Bigelow, where he was executive officer. The shipboard ceremony was attended by Rear Adm. Sam Moore, commander, Cruiser-Destroyer Flotilla 7, and Capt. Howard Kubel, commodore, Destroyer Squadron 3.

L.B. Protesting Phone Hike Bid

Long Beach Friday joined forces with three other California cities in protesting Pacific Telephone Co.'s request for a $181-million-per-year annual rate increase.

The city, along with Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco, filed notice of protest with the California Public Utilities Commission at a San Francisco meeting of the PUC.

The San Francisco session adjourned Friday after hearing company spokesmen sum up reasons for the proposed rate increase. The telephone company's foes will tell why they believe the increase should be denied when the PUC meets in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Pacific Telephone's executive vice president, Jerome Hull, bridled when the four cities filed the notice of protest. He admitted that Pacific's service wasn't as good as it should be. But, he added, more money could improve the picture.

"Without improved earnings," he said, "it will be increasingly difficult to meet growth and improve service."

$188,002 Street Work Awarded by La Mirada

La Mirada City Council has awarded a $188,002 contract for elimination of hazardous conditions on Alondra Boulevard in the industrial district of the city to Copp Paving Co. of Artesia.

Specifications call for widening and resurfacing the street and installation of curbs, gutters and necessary drainage structures between Valley View Avenue and Stage Road.

Champan Bone, city administrator, said costs are being shared by the city, Standard Oil Co., Southern California Edison Co. and the Central Manufacturing District, owners of property along the strip. The city's share in the project will be slightly over $100,000.

Also pending for further improvements along the street is an agreement between the city and the Santa Fe Railroad for the relocation and improvement of traffic signals at the railroad crossing.

SCHMITZ SIZZLES AS BOOK CHURNS

The controversial history textbook, "Land of the Free," is nothing more than "a blatantly biased political tract," State Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, said Friday in Sacramento.

He said he will seek legislation to allow its withdrawal as a school text after this year.

Schmitz, who has identified himself as a member of the John Birch Society, said the book is long on "unsupported opinion and vague generalizations," but short on any substance or fact to back up the statements it makes.

The text, which is required reading for eighth graders beginning with the fall semester, was approved by the State Board of Education earlier this year.

It is intended by its authors to present a more balanced view of the contributions of Negroes and other minorities in American history. The state board approved its use for the next four years.

"Special legislation is needed to permit review" of the book, Schmitz said. He said if the book were found to be "fictitious" it should be withdrawn from classrooms.

Vice Crackdown Continues as More Arrests Expected

A police crackdown on a $4-million-a-year Long Beach area bookie ring has reached the "mopping-up" stage, but there will be more arrests next week, investigators reported late Friday.

Sgt. Clyde Stewart of the Los Angeles Police Department's administrative vice detail — who coordinated 11 raids Thursday which netted nine suspects and bookmaking paraphernalia — said police need "some time to weigh our evidence."

"But we do intend to make a few more arrests before we close the investigation," he said.

Meanwhile, all six persons booked Thursday on suspicion of conspiring to violate the state's antigambling laws were free on $1,100 bail each five hours after their arrests, Harbor Division police said.

They are John Reina, alias Bagliazzo, Imbagliazzo and Johnny Bags, 49, of 361 Park Ave.; William Joseph Cormier, 43, of 1254 Appleton St.; Benjamin Thompson, 59, of 1303 W. Parade St.; Bette Lee Megginson, 45, of 2034 1/2 W. Pacific Coast Highway; Sophie G. Wheeler, 42, of 503 W. 244th St., Wilmington, and Helmer O. Lindberg, 47, of 627 Island Ave., Wilmington.

Three other suspects scooped up in the 1:30 p.m. raid were not booked, but released after questioning.

Thursday's arrests — made after a five-week vice probe — were the latest yield of a summer-long, countywide crackdown that has resulted in the arrest of 76 persons and the halting of more than $30 million a year in bookmaking, gambling, numbers and prostitution activity, officers said.

Pair of One-Act 'Diamonds' Staged in Newport Beach

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

Deciding whether to guffaw or to weep is difficult during the antics in a pair of longish one-act plays now staging at Newport Beach's South Coast Repertory Theater.

Each of playwright Murray Schisgal's subtly penetrating character studies — "The Typists" and "The Tiger" — is in its own way a little diamond. And diamonds may cut deeply, even while bringing pleasure to the beholder.

Adding further pleasure in this instance are the polished talents of Martha MacFarland and Hal Landon Jr., the entire cast for both shows. Neither has forgotten that acting is more than strutting while mouthing lines, that a fresh skill at mimicry remains an important weapon in the actor's armory.

First-rate directing talents were in evidence from Mathias Reitz. A sure, deft, precise control over the action never is lost.

OF THE TWO, I preferred "The Typists" for its high craftsmanship in writing — and for purely masculine prejudice. It contains one of the finest tours de force I've seen recently, one I shan't reveal in order to save future audiences pleasure in discovering it for themselves.

Typewriter jockeys Paul and Sylvia — "Mr. Cunningham" and "Miss Payton" when they're feuding — are co-workers in a sleazy New York office. From 9 to 5 they crank out addresses taken from the phone book on advertising mailers.

Progressively their strengths — and weaknesses — are revealed, stripped away layer by layer. In one sense, that's all there is to the play. Humanity shines through it all and one doesn't know whether to laugh or cry.

WHEN "The Tiger" opens, a bound and gagged Gloria is being carried into what appears to be a typical beatnik artist's pad. Kidnap Ben is about to have his evil way with the victim he grabbed from outside a stationery store. Ben maniacally rants and raves. Gloria fears him at first — until the eternal feminine attitude of compromise and conquer takes charge. Ben, who claims to stalk the city at night on tiger paws, finally is revealed as more the pussy-cat type. Again, good fun along with thought-provoking looks into the human condition.

The plays continue Thursdays-Saturdays through Oct. 8.

BOOK REVIEWS

Selected Verse by Nobel Winner

O THE CHIMNEYS. Selected Poems, and the Verse Play, Ell. By Nelly Sachs. Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $7.50.

We would not need to know that Nelly Sachs shared, with another Jew, S. Y. Agnon, the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1966, to realize that she is among the greatest of living poets. The translations, by such gifted hands as those of Michael Hamburger, Christopher Holme, Ruth and Matthew Mead and Michael Roloff, offer abundant evidence of her stature.

Included in this most welcome introduction to the Jewish poetess who writes in German and lives in Sweden, are the poem sequences Glowing Enigmas, I, II, and III, complete; poems from a half dozen other volumes, and Eli, a mystery play of Israel's sufferings. The German originals and the translations are presented side by side.

Here from Glowing Enigmas, is the poem Old Men:

There in the folds of this star covered with tatters of night they stand and wait for God.

A thorn has closed their mouths, they speak only with their eyes, they speak like a well in which a corpse has drowned.

O the old men, who carry their burnt succession in their eyes and in the poem, Someone Comes:

A stranger always has his homeland in his arms like an orphan for which he may be seeking nothing but a grave.

"The oeuvre of Nelly Sachs," writes the German poet Hans Magnus Enzensberger in his introduction, "is great and mysterious, two attributes that literary criticism has few occasions to apply to poetry these days."

To the publishers of Nelly Sachs, our fervent gratitude, for making a large body of her work at last available in English.

TO LEAVE BEFORE DAWN. By Julian Green.

Harcourt, Brace and World, $4.95.

For nearly two generations the novels of Julian Green have drawn the plaudits of the discerning. But alas, in total they have been few. As memoirist, in his "Diary, 1928-1957," Julian Green has won equal acclaim. His achievement is all the greater in that he writes in a language that is not that of his ancestors—French. For Julian Green is the son of American parents, ruined by the Civil War, who settled in Paris. His mother was a Georgian, his father a Virginian.

This autobiographical work, which ends when the author, at 17, joins an American army in 1917, is the record of his earliest youth. Nothing in his boyhood is glossed over; it is the history of a boy obsessed with his mother's obsession of purity, rudely awakened by his schoolmates. The book is a most remarkable, uninhibited record of the factors that made the man, Julian Green.

Of his mother: "Is it not strange that I should understand her thoroughly only at present now that I have lived a greater number of years than she spent on earth? She made her sons scale defense nets, remain deterred from attacking the other.

U.S. Set to Build Ring of Antimissile Defenses

THE SMALL defenses, it is argued, guard more against smaller nuclear powers, such as China, France and England.

It was not known immediately whether the Nike-X deployment finally agreed upon within the administration would, in addition to providing a defensive shield around the whole United States, also provide for some heavier defenses around America's Minuteman missile sites.

When seeking the stand-by money earlier in the year, administration officials confided they were thinking about both. Area defense alone would cost about $1.5 billion (b). Another $3.5 billion or so would be required to provide tighter protection of the Minuteman locations.

Officials in the past have said that the limited defense could be installed completely in about five years. However, the program could be either accelerated or stretched out, if desired.

In addition, the thin defense is designed on a so-called "building block" concept so that it could be expanded later on, if desired, to provide tighter defenses around specific American cities and defense bases.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff are on record as favoring such an expanded Nike-X system designed to protect against a massive Soviet attack. If it were decided to place such heavier defenses around 25 cities, the total cost would rise to roughly $10 billion. Protection for 50 cities would double the cost.

IN CONGRESSIONAL testimony, McNamara has argued strenuously against a heavy defense system oriented to a Soviet attack primarily because he feels it would force the Russians to build enough ICBMs to overwhelm it and thus would cost both nations many billions without markedly enhancing the protection of either.

The Joint Chiefs counter by asserting that economic, technological and productivity constraints would prevent the Soviets from overcoming such a heavy American defense. They argue that millions of American lives would be saved thereby, if deterrence failed and war erupted.

While McNamara had in earlier years been decidedly unenthusiastic about even a thin Nike-X deployment, this year he told Congress that it might well make sense at some point since technological improvements in the system promise nearly airtight protection against the scale of threat the Chinese are expected to be able to muster during the 1970s and perhaps beyond.

He deferred a go-ahead decision this year, however, arguing that there was still time to decide before the Chinese were able to produce a substantial ICBM force. Other officials said by that, McNamara meant 50 to 150 ICBMs by the mid-1970s.

Since that time, evidence from intelligence sources has been mounting that the Chinese are moving faster than expected on their nuclear and missile programs.

Last N.Y. Journey for 'Mary'

made 1,001 Atlantic crossings and carried more than two million people, including 810,000 troops during World War II, since her maiden voyage in 1936.

Her sister ship, the Queen Elizabeth, will be retired and sold next year.

A 56,000-ton slim-line Cunarder, currently known as Q4, will be launched at Clydeside Wednesday, but it is still open whether the ship will be named a queen to keep up the tradition.

BETTING in shipyard pubs is 5 to 1 that she will be named the Queen Victoria, and 6-1 on Queen Mother.

The Queen Mary — second biggest ocean liner in the world after the 82,997-ton Queen Elizabeth — was withdrawn from service by Cunard because she was losing about $2 million a year to air competition.

In her prime the old ship was unbeatable. She held the blue ribbon for the fastest Atlantic crossing — 3 days, 15 hours, 48 minutes — until she lost the title to the American liner United States in 1952. The United States took 3 days, 10 hours, 40 minutes to cross on her maiden voyage.

Fiesta Today for Mexican Independence

Among highlights of Southland celebrations in honor of the 157th anniversary of Mexican independence today will be grand fiestas at Santa Fe Springs sponsored by that city's Mexican Culture Club.

The two-day event there, centered on Danby Avenue, got under way Friday night and continues today.

Other community celebrations are being held in Wilmington, and downtown Los Angeles.

now — the next witness will be John Wallace Graham, a medical examiner in the L.A. County Coroner's Office.

Immediately after him, six former neighbors of the Kirschkes are scheduled to testify, followed by the "mystery woman" in the case, Lavona Drankhan, estranged wife of the slain pilot-aviation electronics executive.

time to witness the reunion. He preceded his father into the courtroom by several minutes and was "introduced" to his uncle. The families haven't seen each other for eight years.

"Maybe you don't remember your uncle, Paul," Mrs. Fear said as she lead the youth over to the elder Kirschke's wheelchair.

"No, don't," Doug admonished.

Paul Kirschke, who looks much older than his 55 years, arrived with his wife, Norma, from Albuquerque, N.M., last Wednesday to make their home in the Lakewood area. They waited until Friday for the reunion in court — "as a sort of birthday present for Jack."

Kirschke celebrates his 46th birthday in his cell today — far from where he celebrated it last year.

Last year it was an intimate little party for which his wife had ordered a decorated cake and purchased a giant birthday card wishing her "Swingin' Husband" her best — and signing it "I love you."

This year the cake is gone but the card remains — it's in the Assistant Attorney General's "evidence file."

Kirschke's only present this year was a poem written by Mrs. Fear and presented to him Friday.

In part it read: "... your world is bleak and stark. There'll be no celebration Sorrows this year make the present dark."

PRESIDENT JOHNSON Wanted Talks

ROBERT McNAMARA Changes Mind

TRIES FOR YACHT Swap Shopper Goes From Pen to an Auto

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Robert King started a "swap shop" several months ago by offering a broken ballpoint pen for trade.

He vowed to keep trading until he got a car. Now he's wondering where it all will end.

King, the program director of radio station WKMI, said he traded the broken ballpoint pen to a member of his radio audience for a rusty jackknife. The knife was traded for a broken fishing reel, which went for a broken radio, which was traded for a puppy.

The puppy led to bigger and better things, including a vacuum cleaner, barbell, tape recorder, water skis, movie camera and golf clubs.

This week, on his 21st exchange, King got the car — a broken-down 1955 Plymouth sedan. The former owner of the car happily toted home an aquarium.

But Thursday, the car also went. King traded it for a television set and deep freeze. Friday those also went up for grabs.

King now thinks he might not quit until he has "traded his way to a yacht."

There's one trade King consistently has refused to make.

"Some kid keeps calling up every day offering to trade his little brother," he said.

proach," he said, would be the arrangement of bilateral talks between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

CLARK AND 13 representatives belonging to the Members of Congress for Peace Through Law spent the day being "educated" about the U.N. After a discussion and lunch with Goldberg, they talked in the afternoon with Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. under secretary for General Assembly affairs.

Clark told the news conference that, according to Washington gossip, President Johnson was "saying that the war would be over by Christmas." He characterized the U.S. bombing of the port of Campha and of targets near the major port of Haiphong as "the last bone thrown to the hawks" and the last clear chance to force North Vietnam to negotiate a settlement. If the war is escalated further, he warned, no negotiation with Hanoi will be possible.

Marine Digest Publisher Wins Maritime Award

The editor-publisher of Marine Digest, John M. Haydon of Seattle, was selected unanimously Friday as 1967 recipient of the Maritime Reporting Award presented annually by the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities.

Announcement was made at the association's 54th annual meeting in Seattle. Haydon is the organization's current president.

The award is made to a representative of the news media who has "contributed substantially to the maritime industry."

Priest Challenges Fr. Groppi

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A Catholic priest contended Friday night at a white "closed housing" rally on the South Side that it was a "God-given right" of home owners to sell and rent at their own discretion.

The Rev. Russell Witon, chaplain at St. Alphonsus Hospital in nearby Port Washington, challenged the Milwaukee Archdiocesan Priests' Senate, which earlier Friday endorsed the Rev. James E. Groppi for his marathon and violence-marred open housing demonstrations.

"If Groppi can hold his vigils and meetings inside the church, individuals can get up and disagree," Father Witon said, saying parishioners had the right to argue with their priests at Sunday masses on the explosive open-housing issue.

Father Groppi, meantime, remained at St. Boniface parish on the predominantly Negro North Side, as his followers set out on the 19th consecutive night of demonstrations aimed at getting the city to pass an open-housing ordinance.

There were 70 clergymen and nuns marching with the open housing demonstrators, reinforcing their ranks in response to the endorsement from the National Council of Churches' governors.

But the marchers were walking on the far North Side. They have not been back to the South Side since Tuesday night, when violence began.

The rally at which Father Witon spoke was sponsored by the Milwaukee Citizens Civic Voice, a group formed on the South Side after police clashed with whites

Detroit Police Buy Own Rifles

DETROIT (AP) — With traces of violence still lingering from the July riot, Detroit policemen are buying their own Army carbines in case of riot duty — a move a Negro leader attacked Friday as "calculated to intimidate Negroes."

"This is just another indication of what we've known all along," said the Rev. Albert B. Cleage Jr. "Police departments consider themselves the enemies of the black community."

Cleage, chairman of an all-Negro committee he helped set up to plan reconstruction of areas wrecked in the July 23-30 riot, angrily called for city officials to halt the purchase of Army weapons. His committee has been recognized as a co-planner by the reconstruction group named by city officials.

"This is outrageous, ridiculous and absurd," Cleage said in an interview. "They're buying these weapons and it is obvious to assume they will use any weapons they want to. They intend to function independent of the police commissioner and the mayor."

Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said the department has about 700 rifles and shotguns, "probably one of the largest inventories in the country, but that's not enough for full-scale warfare."

During the riot, he said, half the city's 4,400-man police force was on duty at the same time and policemen had to borrow hundreds of rifles from gun stores.

Girardin said the department is trying to increase its weapons inventory. "Meanwhile, I have no objection to men getting bargains on rifles," he said.

Pioneering Woman Pastor Finds Reception Just Fine

By LES RODNEY

Rev. Carol J. Schowalter, first woman in Southland Methodist history to be named as associate pastor, would just as soon forget that distinction and get on with her work.

But being a woman she is also a realist, and has cheerfully accepted the fact that her arrival at Downey Methodist Church is more interesting than the advent of another male minister.

The 25-year-old Auburn haired native Californian came to the 2,300-member church in July with exceptional credentials from the University of Redlands and Claremont Theological Seminary. She took time out from her busy schedule this week to answer questions about how things are going with candor, thoughtfulness and flashes of humor.

"I feel the people here have responded very well," she said. "In fact, there has been nothing at all to suggest disapproval or non-acceptance."

THE YOUTHFUL minister's pioneering role has given rise to many interesting questions, such as this one addressed to her on a television program: "Do you see yourself as a woman who is a minister or a minister who is a woman?"

How did she answer?

"I cut across the question by saying I saw myself as a person who sees life as ministry."

"I don't deny I'm a woman," she amplified with a smile. "I'm proud to be a woman. But of course it is as a person that anyone should be judged and accepted in their work."

While she is strong in this conviction, she is hardly grim or stuffy about the byproducts of her pioneering role, mentioning with a chuckle a communication to the church ministerial staff which began "Dear Fellows and Carol."

Despite her gratifying reception by the Downey congregation, Rev. Schowalter is aware that even in the second half of the 20th Century some folks retain old prejudices against women undertaking more than the "traditional" roles of the past.

"But," she observed, "as people see and accept a woman in a ministerial role, they seem to give way on this feeling."

In other words, the abstract prejudice tends to die when confronted with the living reality of a dedicated, knowledgeable and personable worker in the vineyards of the Lord.

IT WAS as a high school sophomore in Redlands that the young Carol began to think seriously of church-related work as her life's mission. Early church involvement and her inclinations toward service were factors, she recalls. She majored in English and religion in college, and the future came into sharper focus. She wanted to enter the Methodist ministry.

"Like any big decision, it was a pretty difficult one," she said with the slight frown of recollection. "It took a great deal of thinking. Surely it was not the normal thing, so to speak. I didn't know how the Conference would accept me."

Any fears along those lines proved groundless.

"I was encouraged from the start by the men on the Ministerial Board," she relates, recalling in particular one occasion when she told a veteran leading pastor that she had thought of being ordained.

"He said, why don't you? I said I didn't know how people would react, and he answered 'I think we need a woman in the church to change the image of what a woman minister would be, and you are the one!'"

She described the questions put to her by the Ministerial Board as "very fair."

Inevitably, the question of marriage comes up as a possible complication for a woman minister.

"I'm not going to worry about crossing that bridge until I come to it," Rev. Schowalter says. "In the meantime, I hope to continue growing in my work."

THE SOUTHLAND'S Methodist leader, Bishop Gerald Kennedy, took the occasion of her ordination — along with 21 men — to express his special pleasure at her joining the ranks of ministers in the Southern California—Arizona Conference.

Meanwhile, back at the church on Downey Avenue, there really isn't that much time for an associate pastor to dwell philosophically on the nuances of happening to be a member of the female branch of the human family instead of the male branch in doing work that needs to be done. ("You really have a hang-up on this woman thing, don't you?" Rev. Schowalter said to the reporter with good natured feminine charm at one juncture of the interview.)

Theory meets the test of practice in a hurry in a bustling community church. As associate pastor she has responsibilities in the fields of education, youth, children, adults and the creative arts, as well as officiating at an occasional wedding and assisting the pastor in leading the morning worship.

"It's a huge job," she says, "and I have a lot to learn. It is exciting, demanding and rewarding, and I am happy in it." Like many ministers these days in her own and other denominations, Rev. Schowalter is encouraged by those positive aspects of the ecumenical movement leading to greater Christian brotherhood.

"I THINK it is important

REV. CAROL J. SCHOWALTER
'It Was a Difficult Decision ...'

for the church to constantly reexamine itself and its influence," she says. "to be open to all of life and move out into history."

A lively piece of literature on her desk announcing a new youth program at Downey Methodist reflected this view on the need for Christian witness, stressing the question "How can I use my life to shift history toward a better future?"

Asked about Rev. Schowalter's work, Dr. C. P. Hamby Jr., the pastor, said "She is doing an excellent job. As a matter of fact our lay leader just said this week he is quite amazed at the way in which she has taken over and is fulfilling the responsibilities of her ministry. She also has been doing an excellent job assisting in worship service, and she will preach her first sermon on Sunday the 24th."

Dr. Hamby confirmed that the congregation feels a touch of pride in that Downey Methodist was selected for this vigorous step forward in Southern California church life.

Conservative Radio Preachers Charge Free Speech Hit

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

A recent ruling by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is causing consternation among radio preachers whose gospel messages are interspersed with right wing political comments.

The FCC has notified radio stations across the country that henceforth, "when a personal attack is made on the honesty, character or integrity of a person or group the station carrying this attack must inform the person or group attacked within a week, supplying a copy of the tape, script or accurate summary of the attack, and making time available for a response."

Failure to comply with the rule exposes a station to a $10,000 fine for each incident.

Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N.J., whose daily broadcasts are aired over about 600 local radio stations has appealed to his followers to write to their congressmen demanding legislative action to overturn the ruling, which was issued as a specific application of the FCC's longstanding "fairness doctrine."

Dr. McIntire's broadcasts frequently include sharp attacks on persons and groups whom he accuses of apostasy or subversion.

The FCC ruling was appealed to the Supreme Court this week by the Red Lion, Pa., Broadcasting Co., which claims it limits free speech and is unconstitutional.

The company had been ordered to give air time to a man criticized by Rev. Billy James Hargis of Tulsa, Okla., in a "Christian Crusade" broadcasts carried by the station.

In his newspaper, the Christian Beacon, Dr. McIntire reproduced copies of letters from two radio stations which carry his broadcast. One said it could not continue carrying it unless he supplied with each day's tape "the name or

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS IN 2 STATES RAISE QUESTIONS ON VIETNAM WAR POLICIES

National differences of opinion on the Vietnam war have caught up with the Southern Baptist Convention, largest Protestant denomination, which has preponderantly held a "hawk" position.

Latest issue of the "California Southern Baptist," official state paper, in an editorial entitled "Vietnam and the American Conscience," says "We doubt that the Tonkin Gulf Resolution is sufficient ground for our present action . . . Congress should face the basic, moral question of whether or not we should be involved in Vietnam. Is it right, or is it wrong? . . . Let Congress make a decision, let Thieu and Ky take the Vietnamese case to the U.N., and let the President tell the people exactly what is happening and where we are. Otherwise, let's get out of Vietnam, now."

The Arkansas Baptist Newsmagazine this month became the first state publication to flatly call for a pullout, referring to "the utter futility of our continuing to pursue a war for liberation of a people so completely dominated by military junta as are the South Vietnamese . . . Any commitment we may have had in this fight has been met a thousand times over. There may have been a time when the big question for us was how to get out and save face. If that time ever was, it does not exist today. The question now is how can we save our soul if we stay in."

CONFIDENT LIVING Setting Wrong Things Right

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

"Why does everything go wrong for me?" How many times have you heard that fretful question? Well, in the nature of human beings and the world, things often go wrong. In fact, sometimes everything seems to go wrong. "Woes cluster; rare are solitary woes; they love a train, they tread each other's heel," wrote Edward Young. And in Shakespeare's "Hamlet," are the famous words: "When sorrows come, they come not single spies, but in battalions."

What to do when things go wrong? Some people get fatalistic and take it lying down. "This just isn't my day," you hear said. Others try to fight the problem; get jittery, or resentful, or feel sorry for themselves. I once asked a friend what he did when things go wrong. I have great respect for this man's intelligence. He didn't have two nickels to rub together when I first knew him. But he developed into one of the outstanding sales geniuses of our times — made a large fortune and has given away enormous sums for humanitarian programs, education and religion. "I don't accept things going wrong. I make them go right," he answered sturdily. "God made everything, didn't He? And He made it good. So if things are going wrong I know it must be something in me. I look to see what's wrong in me and get it straightened out. Then things go right."

PERHAPS THAT makes the problem sound too simple, but that man's approach seems a good one. Experience bears out the thesis that things go wrong because we are wrong. If you take that fact as a working hypothesis and resolutely seek to understand where you're wrong and change it, you're on your way to better things. And the changing of oneself which this involves is mainly a matter of changing your thinking. The thoughts you think continuously affect your whole condition, mental, emotional and physical; and in turn affect the impressions and attitudes of everyone with whom you come in contact.

A minister told of a woman who kept coming to talk about her problems. Each time it was a different problem; hers was a classic case of everything going wrong. But one thing she asserted repetitively: "I hate my husband. I hate life. And I hate God."

Anticipating this refrain of hers the minister asked, "How are you getting along with your husband?"

"I don't get along with him at all."

"That's only natural," he remarked, "since you constantly tell yourself you hate him. How are you getting along with God?"

"God seems far away."

"Well," said the minister, "I don't think God forces Himself on anyone who hates Him. He still loves you though, even when you hate Him."

"This is silly talk," the woman complained. "Can't you do something for me?"

"Yes, I think I can," he answered. "I'm going to put you through an exercise in changing your thinking. We'll start right now. I want you to say certain things to yourself aloud, over and over. What I want you to say is: 'I love my husband. I love life. I love God.' Start now saying that and keep it up for 30 minutes."

"I refuse to be such a hypocrite!" she exclaimed. "I never heard of anything so silly!"

ACTUALLY you're being a hypocrite right now," he told her. "For you really do love your husband and God. So start saying those things."

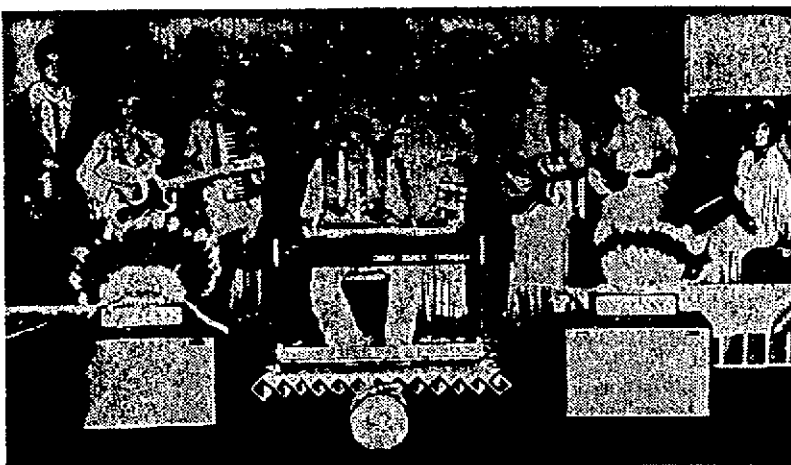

She started in hesitantly: "I love my husband. I love life. I love God. . . ." She kept this up for some 15 minutes, then stopped and said, "I think I get it. You want me to experience the power of positive affirmation, don't you?" And she admitted, "Maybe I do love my husband, and life and God. Guess that's why I come here to talk with you."

The woman gradually got on top of her difficulties. Amazed at the discovery that by affirmation she could change her state of mind, she worked at it vigorously, persistently. In time it led to becoming a changed person. And since a changed person attracts new situations and conditions, things got better because she was better.

"Most of the shadows of this life," said Emerson, "are caused by standing in our own sunshine." When we get busy changing our attitudes that have been casting shadows and making things go wrong — things start going right.

Baptist Men Meet

Eight men from St. John Baptist Church are attending the 34th annual Laymen's Conference of American Baptist Men at Thousand Pines which winds up Sunday, reports A. Beckett, president of the local group.

AT CALVARY BAPTIST OF BELFLOWER

The Thomas Indian Family, traveling musical gospel team, will be featured at special Sunday School Rally Day services at Calvary Baptist Church, 14719 Ardis Ave., Belflower, Sunday at 9:45 a.m., and will also sing at the 11 o'clock worship service. A documentary color film of the entire Sunday School will be made for the growing church. School attendance has averaged 876 for the year, with a high of 1,288. The Thomas Family will appear in full dress costume.

Mrs. Edwards Named by Presbyterians

Westminster Community Presbyterian Church, at 2474 Pacific Ave., will install Mrs. Barbara Edwards as director of Christian Education Sunday at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

Mrs. Edwards, who received her master's degree in Christian Education from San Francisco Theological Seminary, has been active in the Lakewood First Presbyterian education program. She is also chairman of legislation and education of the PTA Council, past president of Helen Keller PTA, and local action chairman of the Long Beach League of Women Voters.

Among those taking part in the ceremonies will be Dorothy Armin, field director of the Presbytery Board of Christian Education, and Dr. Herman Sweet, who formerly held that position. A reception will be tendered Mrs. Edwards following each service.

HONORED

Silver anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood will be celebrated by Rev. Thomas Ryan Sunday, 12:30 p.m., at a Solemn High Mass at St. Cyprian's Church, 4720 Clark Ave. Father Ryan, now auxiliary chaplain at the U.S. Navy Hospital, Long Beach, is a native of County Tipperary and came to this country in 1954. He has served many parishes, including St. Cyprian's where 1,600 families worship. A reception immediately following the Mass will be held from 2 to 4 p.m.

Discuss Anything?

LONDON (UPI) — The minister of London's famous Southwark Cathedral is dropping Sunday night services for one year in favor of informal discussions on controversial subjects.

The Very Rev. Ernest Southcott said he thought the new policy might attract persons who normally don't attend church. "We'll discuss anything, so long as nobody tries to sell anything."

BRIEFLY . . .

Episcopalian Role in U.S. Founding Reflected in Church Doctrines

It is probably no accident that the Episcopal Church, which meets in a highly interesting convention starting Sunday at Seattle, has somewhat the same system of checks and balances as the nation's government, with two houses, a two-thirds vote needed in both for a measure to become church law, and many other similarities.

Historians have determined that almost two thirds of the signers of the U.S. Constitution were Episcopalians, including Washington, Hamilton, Madison, Monroe, Marshall, Jay. The intellectual strength of the church is one of the reasons why its influence in America has always far exceeded its formal membership now some 2.5 million.

Problems aren't new to this communion. The American Revolution for a start gave them what we might call a "king size" problem. Their bishops at that time could be consecrated only in England, and this required declaring loyalty to the king as head of the church.

The first U.S. Episcopal bishop, Samuel Seabury, solved the consecration problem by finding three Scottish bishops were refused to swear allegiance to the king!

Something to bear in mind while reading about controversy in Seattle is this: Episcopalians feel their church has perhaps been the most successful in the U.S. in maintaining a balance between gospel and tradition on the one hand, and the use of reason on the other. They believe that freedom of investigation, restatements of the Christian faith, and incorporation of scientific truths are possible without creating violent fundamentalist-modernist controversies, and there is room for many views in the church.

As for their view of the Bible, in his article on "What is an Episcopalian?" in this paper several years ago, theologian Dr. Norman Pittenger said the following:

The Holy Scriptures are, for Episcopalians, the great source and testing ground of Christian doctrine. Nothing may be taught "as necessary to eternal salvation" excepting what can be "proved" (the Elizabethan word for "tested") by Holy Scripture.

But the Episcopal Church does not hold to the literal inerrancy of Scripture. The Bible is considered sacred for its general inspiration, as the record of God's revelation.

Episcopalians Face Hot Issues

Abortion Law, Vietnam Race, Heresy on Agenda

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Issues ranging from abortion laws to heresy, from the war in Vietnam to the war on poverty, face the 62nd general convention of the U.S. Episcopal Church Sunday through Sept. 27.

The convention is the supreme governing body of the 178-year-old, 3.5 million member church. It meets every three years and this year's session in Seattle has been billed as one of the most controversial and important since the founding convention in 1785.

More than 10,000 episcopalians, some from foreign lands, are expected to attend. But the decision-making will be confined to 866 of them, the 188 in the House of Bishops and the 678 in the House of Deputies.

The two-house governing body is unique among American churches, but like other denominations the Episcopalians are undergoing increasingly hard self-examination in the light of contemporary social, ecclesiastical and political issues.

Among the more controversial questions slated to come before the convention:

How should the church stand in relation to new attitudes toward abortion, illegitimacy, birth control and homosexuality?

Should election to the house of deputies be open to women?

Should the church adopt a change in canon law that would make a heresy trial practically impossible to initiate?

On conscientious objectors, can the church recognize a "selective" objection to a particular war, such as the war in Vietnam?

What more can be done to end racial segregation of congregations?

Should the church again revise the Book of Common Prayer?

How can the church help relieve hunger among peoples of underdeveloped nations?

What can it do toward resolving the growing problems of big cities, particularly in Negro ghettos?

How can the church improve its theological recruiting and education?

As convention time neared, nearly 150 reports, resolutions and memorials had been submitted. As in Congress, only measures adopted by both houses become valid. A change in the church constitution requires favorable action by two successive conventions.

The triennial meeting of episcopal churchwomen is held coincident to the convention.

In recent years, the bishops have voted in favor of opening the House of Deputies to women. At the 1964 convention in St. Louis, the "Women's Suffrage" measure lacked several votes for passage by the deputies.

One of the main attractions of the Seattle meeting will be the Sept. 21-23 visit of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. and Rt. Hon. Arthur Ramsey, The primate of the Church of England is the spiritual head of the 423-million-member Anglican communion. He will preach at an ecumenical service in the 15,000-seat Seattle Coliseum on Sunday, Sept. 24.

One of the most controversial reports was expected to be that prepared by a commission appointed to study human sexuality and related matters.

A special 11-member committee on theological freedom and social responsibilities will have come up with a proposal that will subdue, if not bury, the "heresy" dispute of the past several years between Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, former Bishop of California, and a small group of more conservative bishops.

Bishop Pike's repudiation of such traditional doctrine as the Virgin Birth and the Trinity led to the controversy and earlier this year he had promised to press for a modern day test of heresy.

However, the special committee — after consulting leading theologians, including Pike — came up with a report asking the church not only to tolerate but to "actively encourage free and vigorous theological debate."

The question of conscientious objection to military service will be presented by the Episcopal Peace Fellowship in resolutions favoring selective objection and defining the Vietnam war as "a particularly heinous affront to the Christian conscience."

Two recent church conventions, those of the United Presbyterian Church and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, rejected the idea of selective conscientious objection.

However, some church groups — including the National Council of Churches, the United Church of Christ and Central Conference of American Rabbis — have adopted resolutions this year in favor of recognizing selective objection as a matter of individual conscience.

'TAKEOVER' BID CHARGED

Associated Press

Claims of a possible right-wing bid to gain ascendancy in the Episcopal Church smoldered on the eve of its governing congress.

Several well-known clergymen in the Church, notably Rev. Lester Kinsolving, of San Francisco, have maintained that archconservatives are marshalling forces to try to curb progressive church trends.

Citing various incidents, he writes that there is a "growing possibility of a right-wing victory" at the general convention, with opposition aimed particularly at the Church's activity in civil rights and in the National Council of Churches.

If the "take-over" occurs, he says, it would mean the "silencing of some of Christianity's most relevant voices." Others also have claimed that rightists may attempt "a coup" or "to stack" the convention.

"We've been warned of an attempted take-over of the convention by pressure groups from the right or left," says Dr. Clifford B. Morehouse, president of the Church's House of Deputies. "But I must say there is little evidence of this."

Another sharp issue stems from an unofficial group, the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity, which has gathered thousands of signatures demanding that the Church charge itself with "heretical and blasphemous" practices by countenancing segregated parishes, and by discriminatory placement of Negro priests.

Controversy also swirled about recommendations of a special commission that the Church affirm its support for "free and vigorous" doctrinal inquiry, that it drop the label "heresy" except in its historical context, and that it make trials for doctrinal departures "extremely difficult."

Dr. McIntire called the ruling a deliberate attempt by the FCC to stifle the "freedom of speech" of conservative broadcasters who combine "preaching the gospel and denouncing sin in high places."

He said the laws of libel and slander "are adequate and sufficient to take care" of anyone who feels he has been unjustly attacked in a radio program.

DREW PEARSON

Sam Yorty Getting Another Tax-Free Birthday Bundle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Ex-Congressman Sam Yorty, popular mayor of Los Angeles, is promoting another testimonial dinner for himself, but this time he's being very careful to avoid any Doddism.

Sam has given himself five testimonial dinners, raising an estimated net of $690,000 during his career as mayor of America's third largest city.

Two of these dinners could have been legitimately tabbed as campaign fund raisers, since they coincided with Yorty's elections. But the other three were testimonial dinners of the type that caused Sen. Tom Dodd, "D-Conn.," to be the sixth senator in American history to be censured.

Since Mayor Yorty has his eye on the U.S. Senate and is expected to run as a Democrat against Republican Sen. Tom Kuchel, the GOP Senate whip, what the mayor does with his dinners and his money is of national interest.

The three nonpolitical dinners were:

—A "birthday dinner" for himself Oct. 1, 1963, at the Palladium, which netted $48,000. 1963 was not a campaign year.

—A "civil dinner" July 22, 1964, at the Ambassador Hotel, netting an estimated $135,000. 1964 was not a city election year.

—A "community tribute" dinner to Yorty, Nov. 12, 1965, at the Hollywood Palladium, netting an estimated $162,000. Since it was held just after Yorty had defeated Jimmy Roosevelt for mayor, it certainly could not have been called a campaign fund-raising affair.

Add to this approximately $75,000 which Yorty received from advertising in his dinner programs, and the total take for the five dinners was around $690,000.

THE politicians have been wondering what Sam has done with the money. When the mayor has been asked by newspapermen what he does with the dough he replies: "Voter education."

Probably G. Bentley Ryan, the Los Angeles attorney who sent out letters for the 1963 birthday dinner, came close to the truth as to the reason for the dinners. Bentley drummed up dinner guests by suggesting to those who bought a table of 10 for $1,000 or tickets for $100 each that they could "facilitate their interests" at city hall. A lot of people got the message. The Palladium was well filled by lobbyists, politicians and businessmen who wanted to "facilitate their interests."

This year another ty is being given for His Honor, a birthday celebration Oct. 1 at the Palladium. And this time the mayor is taking no chances of getting into the same trouble as Sen. Dodd. It's a $100-a-plate affair, and in one corner of the invitations is this small print: "Ball proceeds are a gift to Mayor Yorty."

This means about $150,000, tax free, for Sam to use as he wishes.

WHEN EARL WARREN left the governorship of California to become U.S. chief justice, he found the federal judiciary in a state of disarray. Some courts were several years behind in cases; some up to date. Some retired judges, supposed to earn their salaries by sitting part time, and willing to do so, had no assignments.

Since the chief justice's job is to supervise the federal judiciary as well as preside over the Supreme Court, he looked around for a court administrator. Warren Olney, whom Warren had earlier appointed to the California Crime Commission, was just finishing a term as assistant attorney general under Eisenhower and wanted to go home.

WARREN asked him to come back and administer the courts. Olney declined, retired to a place he had built in the California hills. But two weeks later he telephoned the chief justice to ask: "Can I still have that job?"

The job, Warren said, was open. Olney has been in Washington ever since. Now, after 14 years of giving a highly efficient administration to the federal judiciary, he is retiring.

Bird Woman, 72, Caged

An undaunted lover of birds is spending the next five days in jail on a contempt of court charge, but she vowed: "I'm not going to stop doing something God told me to do."

Mrs. John Steed, 72, was taken to the county jail to begin a five-day sentence handed down Friday by Superior Court Judge Max F. Wisot, climaxing six months of jousting among the Steeds, their neighbors on Geneva Walk in Naples and the judge.

The Steeds had signed a stipulation in 1964 agreeing not to feed pigeons, doves, starlings or other feathered friends who might come calling on them at their home at 121 Geneva Walk. When they violated the agreement, irate neighbors forced them into court where they were ordered to abide by the stipulation.

On March 17 the Steeds were brought before Judge Wisot for defying the order. The judge found them guilty on two counts of contempt. On March 18 he granted probation.

About two weeks later, they were back in Judge Wisot's court after being served subpoenas for again violating his orders. The case was continued.

JUDGE WISOT continued the case again on April 29 and remanded Mrs. Steed for psychiatric examination because of her apparent failure to understand exactly what he had ordered.

She passed the test and the judge found her guilty of contempt of court. Her husband, John, remains on probation.

"Judge Wisot doesn't like birds," Mrs. Steed said matter-of-factly as she was led away.

Flournoy Hails Oil Isles

By DON BRACKENBURY

Oil operations from Long Beach's four offshore islands are "quite impressive," State Controller Houston I. Flournoy said Friday after a tour of the facilities.

Flournoy, who also is chairman of the state Lands

Commission, which represents the state in the tideland oil operations, was making his first official inspection of the islands.

"This is the kind of enterprise which is of mutual benefit to the city, to the state and to the participating oil companies," Flournoy said.

He also praised the city and Thums Long Beach Co. for their program of landscaping and otherwise beautifying the offshore islands.

"You have integrated the economic aspects — drilling and extraction — with the surrounding area in such a way as to give consideration to the aesthetics," the controller said.

In reference to the financial arrangements of the tideland development, under which the split ultimately will be 85 per cent to the state and 15 per cent to the city, Flournoy said it is "an attempt to be equitable to all parties, and which I believe closely approaches that goal."

After a briefing at City Hall, Flournoy was taken on a boat tour of the four islands, including stops on Island Delta, where development has just got under way, and Island Alfa, which is the oldest in point of development.

CITY OFFICIALS on the tour included City Manager John R. Mansell; Leonard W. Brock, director of oil properties; and Deputy City Attorney Harold Lingle.

The oil officials were Jack Russell, president and general manager of Thums; George Wells, assistant division manager, Texaco Co.; W. F. Eiting, manager, natural gas department, Humble Oil Co.; John R. Fraser, manager for operations, Pacific Coast Division, Union Oil Co.; G. R. Lucie-Smith, division vice president, Mobile Oil Corp.; and G. A. Burton, area vice president, Shell Oil Co.

Councilman Emmet M. Sullivan took part in the City hall briefing, but did not make the boat tour.

Two other awards will be for $2,500 each, there will be four of $1,500, eight for $1,000 and 12 $500 awards.

Since Disneyland launched the awards program in 1957—with $5,000 to distribute — it has awarded $139,000 to 134 organizations, by increasing the amount of its contributions each year.

Welder Arrested for $3,700 Credit Card Fraud in L.B.

A 30-year-old welder was hooked by Long Beach police Friday on charges that he fraudulently used a Buffum's credit card to obtain more than $3,700 worth of goods from the department store chain.

Detective Sgt. Anthony Matelich said Bob G. Parke of 1600½ Standley Ave. told police that he found the card a few weeks ago.

Police said that after making a few minor purchases, Parke made the rounds of the Buffum's stores in Long Beach, Palos Verdes and Pomona.

The purchase of a $622 color television set in the Pomona branch led to his undoing, detectives said.

Clarke was arrested at his home after a suspicious clerk wrote down his auto license number as he drove away from the store with the new television. Items recovered include record albums, a portable stereo set, an electric razor, bedspreads, blankets, pillows and sheets.

Extreme Fire Danger to Exist Over Weekend

A weather outlook of mostly sunny days brought a warning of "extreme fire danger" for the weekend in Los Angeles County brush areas Friday, although morning and night clouds and local fogs will occur.

County Fire Chief Keith Klinger said conditions are almost the same as two weeks ago when 10,000 acres of valuable watershed and three homes were lost in four major fires in Ventura and Los Angeles County.

Over a longer term, meteorologists continued to watch the possibility that tropical storm Nanette off the Mexican coast and on a northward course along the shore might bring its effects to the local area.

Another Pacific storm — Monica — has been downgraded to a rating of "tropical depression."

Disneyland Allots $30,000 for Awards

Disneyland posted $30,000 Friday for its 1967 Community Service Awards program, the 11th annual.

At the same time, the Magic Kingdom announced the selection of six community leaders to choose 27 winners who will receive cash awards for civic and philanthropic service this year.

The awards committee will include Maj. Gen. William G. Thrash, commanding general of the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station; Dr. William Langsdorf, president of California State College, Fullerton; Herbert L. V. Coffey, Westminster civic leader; Miss Agnes Blomquist, president of the Newport-Balboa Savings and Loan Association; Mrs. J. S. Fluor Jr., Santa Ana club leader; and Lewis Herbst, president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce.

As last year, the top award will be $5,000 cash.

Torrance, L.B. Marines Die in Viet

Two more Southland Marines — one from Long Beach and the other from Torrance — have been killed in Vietnam combat, it was reported Friday.

Victims were Lance Cpl. Wayne Richard Kloese, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Kloese of 2747 Studebaker Road, and Lance Cpl. David L. Reasoner, whose wife resides at 735 Cadison St., Torrance.

Cpl. Kloese died Sept. 2. He had been in Vietnam 10 months and was due home on leave in December. Besides his parents, survivors include a sister, Mrs. Andrea Stevenson.

No details were available on Cpl. Reasoner's death.

Judge Ross Enrobed in Compton

New Compton Municipal Court Judge William Ross was enrobed Friday in ceremonies held by presiding Judge Harry T. Shafer.

Judge Ross recently was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to fill a vacancy created with the elevation of Judge Donald Dunbar to the Superior Court.

Prior to his appointment, Judge Ross was a practicing attorney in Compton, where he has maintained offices since 1956.

New Ice Follies Opens in L.B.

By GEORGE LAINE

A brand-new Shipstads and Johnson ice extravaganza—the Ice Follies of 1968—opened a seven-day stand at Long Beach Arena Friday night, delighting a first-night audience that didn't quite fill the huge Arena.

If the show is new, there are still some vestiges of the past on hand, including the traditional Shipstads and Johnson flair for superb costuming, bright productions and skating of the highest caliber. With those assets, the 1968 Ice Follies was a guaranteed success before the curtain went up.

WHEN IT DID—15 minutes late—even the humidity couldn't keep the crowd from oh-ing and ah-ing at the set and costumes of the opening selection, "Rooftop Varieties," a salute to the Flo Ziegfeld era.

From then until the curtain closed for the last time some two hours later with a patriotic effort that included "Stars and Stripes Parade" and a rendition of "This Is My Country" by the entire cast, the audience sat enthralled.

A LOT OF LONG BEACH area small fry—accompanied by their elders—made it to the opening night program and were rewarded in many ways. The show is billed as "full family fun" by the Shipstads and Johnson folks; and that's how it came across; no questionable lines, no double entendre, no suggestive gags. For 32 years, the record has remained intact.

Irvine Co. Protests Property Assessment

By BOB GEIVET

Major Orange County landowners, including the Irvine Co., filed protests against 1967-68 assessments as the protest deadline arrived Friday.

County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw said there were 700 protests and that he will contest 562 of them. Of this number, 447 involve real property and the other 115 are valuations for business holdings.

The Irvine Co. protested 165 tax bills on properties in its so-called "central core" area around the ranch headquarters east of Santa Ana.

Most of this property is agricultural and represents at least 60 per cent of the almost 84,000 acres the company owns in east-central Orange County.

In addition to the Irvine protests, the Kraemer, Dominguez, Yorba and Travis ranches in Santa Ana Canyon filed protests involving more than 600 acres. Carmen Warshaw, onetime Democrat associate of ex-Gov. Edmund G. Brown, protested the valuations of 400 acres she owns near Los Alamitos.

The assessor said some of the protests on business levies involve so-called "escape penalties," which he said are penalties of 50 per cent of alleged amounts due by major companies on unreported inventories. These involve such firms as National Dairy Products Co., American Can Co., Rexall Drugs and Robert Hall Clothiers.

In announcing its decision to file protests, Irvine Co. spokesman William R. Mason conceded that past assessments may have been too low but claimed that this year's valuations are too high.

"AFTER MORE THAN A year of detailed economic analysis, the Irvine Co. now believes that in the past its total assessment was probably too low," Mason explained. "However, this year's increases (in valuations) has raised the assessments beyond 25 per cent of the full cash value of the non-urban portion of the ranch."

Mason said Hinshaw jacked up the company's assessments 30 per cent over last year's assessments.

The Orange County Board of Supervisors began hearings Friday as a board of equalization, hearing four protests. All were denied. The board adjourned until Sept. 25 at 9:30 a.m.

ICE FOLLIES' Cool Cats include (from left) Katherine Cruickshank, Sheila Volzke and Suan Prange. Follies opened seven-day run Friday night in the Arena.

The kids probably got their money's worth with one production number—"Inky's Pastry Shoppe," the number has a cuddly black bear named Inky (who — under that fur—is really a cuddly lass named Cathy Freed) and Inky had a problem most bakers would welcome: an order big enough to put the entire shop (or shoppe) on overtime. Inky solved it by pleading for (and getting) cooperation. In the process Inky (or Miss Freed) managed to get into the audience where she landed on the lap of rinksider Lawrence Welk and mused his hair up properly as the audience—recognizing the bandleader—howled with glee. For longtime devotees of the Ice Follies, there were favorites of other years, including the spectacular Richard Dwyer (who has a new and lovely partner in Pasadena Susan Berens). Dwyer seems to get better with each year, a fact which should stun those who have seen him, previously. There were period efforts — The Scarecrows workout in Surf 'n Sand (circa 1906) and the Rooftop Varieties (circa 1922) — that were both novel and beautiful. In fact, there was a moment or two during the appearance of the 19 superbly gowned "Ziegfeld Girls" in the Varieties segment when the more perceptive youngsters in the audience might have profited handsomely. They were getting a look at the kind of competition Grandma had back when the 20s roared.

Heavy Crash Truck . . . carries 1500 gallons water. Foam tank has sufficient capacity to make total 40,000 gallons of foam discharged through turret and hand lines.

Symbol of master plan that calls for eventual complete conversion to diesel pumping, this 1250-gallon-per-minute diesel pumping engine is a proud new firefighting weapon.

The Long Beach Fire Department in 1964 added a 90' working-height snorkel to its task force. It discharges 1,000 gallons per minute.

A view of the equipment available at just one Long Beach firefighting station . . . the Public Safety Building. There are 21 stations in the network with 17 engine companies and 5 truck companies in constant preparedness. The Department is comprised of 400 fire fighting personnel plus 45 uniformed & non-uniformed members on daylight.

Total fire and non-fire emergencies for the 1965-66 period numbered 4,758. Up 922 responses from the comparable 1964-65 period.

QUOTE-ACROSTIC

EDITED BY Charles Preston

HOW TO FIND THE NEWSWORTHY QUOTE AND THE QUOTER

1. Define "Clues," writing definitions in answer column over numbered dashes.
2. Transfer letters to numbered squares in diagram; the black squares separate words.
3. When pattern is completed, quotation can be read from left to right. The first letters of the answer words, reading down, form an acrostic yielding the speaker's name.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Norwalk Mechanic Falls in Front of Train, Killed

A 26-year-old Norwalk mechanic was killed Friday when he fell in front of a moving freight car at the Shasta Beverage Co., 14405 Artesia Blvd., La Mirada.

Norwalk sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Richard S. Decker of 11509 Alburis Ave., the father of five children.

Deputies said Decker was on a truck towing the freight car on a siding when he slipped off and fell on the tracks. The car, loaded with sugar, passed over his body.

BOGUS CHECKS PASSED
Santa Ana police have alerted Orange County merchants that more than 20 checks ranging in amounts from $40 to $150 dollars and imprinted with "John A. Harvey, administrator of the Estate of Edith G. Harvey" have been passed in the past two weeks.

Lt. Harrell Davis said the checks are drawn on the Bank of America's main branch in Santa Ana and were stolen from the Reliance Title Co., Santa Ana. CLEMENCY ASKED
Orange County District Attorney Cecil Hicks has asked for clemency for Wayne McFarland, 21, who admitted robbing two patrons prior to their being shot and killed during a holdup of a Stanton bar

Feb. 16.

Convicted of the dual murders was McFarland's accomplice, William W. McClellan, 27, who was given the death penalty.

Hicks testified before Judge Samuel Dreizen, in Santa Ana Superior Court, that evidence showed McClellan was the killer and McFarland was "only a follower."

McFarland's testimony during the trial helped convict McClellan of the double murder, but Hicks told Judge Dreizen "no deals had been made."

QUIZ MURDER SUSPECT
A 27-year-old mental patient is being questioned in Texas by San Bernardino detectives in connection with the 1965 slaughter of a Fountain Valley engineer, his wife and two sons.

Police in Arlington, Texas, who arrested Robert Stewart, 27, on the basis of information sent to them by Mobile, Ala., police about a knife slaying of two young boys, said that Stewart is a former mental patient who talks constantly of religion and quotes the Bible.

Police in San Bernardino said Stewart is known to have been working at a church camp near the Crestline cabin where the bodies of James Boles, 41, his wife and two sons were found in August 1965. A total of 42 bullets had been pumped into their bodies.

'Traditional' Opens Milk Bowl Gridfest

RAMS POINTING TOWARD MILK BOWL VICTORIES

Williams and Scot Coltrane. Cheerleader Steph Pinkerton, part of surprise formation, just wanted boys to know she will be rooting for blue and gold. Fans can see five more league clubs today for one dollar.

By TOM BARDEEN

A renewal of the traditional Poly-Wilson High clash opens the 20th P-TA Milk Bowl Carnival at Veterans Stadium today. Excitement always runs high when Poly-Wilson play, and this year will be no exception as Poly hopes to come back strong from last season's third place performance.

A crowd of approaching 16,000 is expected to be on hand to enjoy the five gridiron struggles for $1, beginning with the 10 a.m. Poly-Wilson kickoff. Following the opening quarter, Jordan tackles Lakewood, Millikan vs. Millikan tussle closing out the trials.

Coach Al Matz' Rabbits lost a Milk Bowl contest for the first time last year, and have plans for starting a new streak. From behind the 195-pound average line, biggest in the Moore League, fullback Ed Giles will try to take apart the Bruins with his running game, while quarterback Bill Brown threatens from the air.

Coach Owen Dixon's Bruins will be set to stop Poly's early season bid for success, but the Bruins are short on game-time experience.

Biggest question mark on the morning's card is whether Millikan will be able to repeat last year's Milk Bowl double, when it first downed Wilson 6-0, then turned around to deal Jordan the same hand 6-0. Coach Roger Hull's Rams, looking for their best year, have the unenviable task of meeting Poly and Lakewood in the same afternoon.

As the opening competition of the Moore League season, the P-TA Milk Bowl results forecast possible crown contenders. Lakewood is the title favorite, and will play like champs, Millikan will have to scramble.

Jordan has been the league doormat for the past few years, but under new coach Len Stewart, football is changing. Their Milk Bowl scheduling is tough — first league champ Lakewood, then runnerup Wilson. The Panthers are set to surprise, with a big line and quarterback John Edwards heading an effective backfield.

'Questionable' Cal Staters Open Grid Play Tonight

By JIM McCORMACK
Cal State Long Beach football coach Don Reed has had many questions on his mind this week, and he hopes he gets satisfactory answers tonight when his 49ers host Cal Poly, Pomona in an 8 o'clock encounter at Veterans Stadium.

Reed said, "but we don't know anything about them. We haven't played them in two years and all we have moved well at all against our defense, but what does that mean? Do we have a great defense or a poor offense? We can't find out until we play somebody."

Cal Poly presents an unusual problem for the 49ers. "I don't like to admit it," Reed said, "but we don't know anything about them. We haven't played them in two years and all we have to go on are last year films when Poly beat San Fernando, 44-12. I don't have to remind you that we beat Valley just 24-20."

Cal Poly canceled its yearly series with the 49ers after the 1965 game because Long Beach had won four contests in a row, outscoring the Broncos, 138-26.

The Broncos sought a renewal this year for two reasons, its football program has improved and Cal Poly wants to get into the CCAA.

After winning just eight of 25 games through 1965, Cal Poly took five of 10 last fall and has a great deal of its squad returning.

Football TV Fans Get Look Today at 'The Killer'

United Press International "Kill Maurice, Kill."
Somehow that phrase doesn't bring to mind the stark terror that Michigan State backers did last fall with their "Kill Bubba, Kill" buttons, that encouraged State's monstrous tackle Bubba Smith to evermore harrowing destruction of the opposition.

But don't feel too badly for Texas A&M's boosters. Buttonless though they'll be, they will still be able to show off Maurice Moorman, their own one-man blitzkrieg, on national television this afternoon—all 260 pounds of him.

MOORMAN, an all-Southwest Conference tackle last fall who showed enough speed to move into an offensive guard spot for the coming campaign, leads a host of Aggie stars to day in a battle with Southern Methodist that highlights the first big weekend of college football, 1967.

The first weeks of the season are usually dominated by those flashy intersectional games and this Saturday will be no exception with Washington meeting Nebraska and UCLA hosting Tennessee in a red-hot quarterback duel between the Bruins' Gary Beban and the Vols' Dewey Warren.

But the Southwest Conference gets down to business right away and though neither SMU or A&M is about to run off with an SWC crown, they typify the outstanding performers spread throughout the rosters of the eight conference schools.

Elsewhere in the West, the Air Force Academy meets Oklahoma State; and Oregon State plays host to Stanford.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

American League President Joe Cronin announced Friday he will call a league meeting after the World Series, apparently to act on Kansas Athletics owner Charlie O. Finley's request to move his club.

Finley has a management consultant force studying various cities to determine the best site for the A's.

RING ODDS favor Karl Mildner tonight when he meets Argentine Oscar Bonevina in a 12-round heavyweight elimination bout at Madison Square Garden. The odds are set at 4-1.

The bout is the third in a four-event elimination tournament. Floyd Patterson meets Jerry Quarry in the windup Oct. 28.

COACH Otto Graham of the Washington Redskins chided his players Friday at a welcoming luncheon. Graham stated, "We haven't had a decent practice all week. I'm obviously not happy with my players today, but they had better come through Sunday or we'll have a practice session Sunday night."

ROBERTO Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday filed suit for $1 million against Pittsburgh Weekly News, claiming he was libeled in an article describing a fight between Willie Stargell and himself. Stargell previously filed a $750,000 libel suit.

NO WONDER the San Diego Chargers have had a dismal pre-season record, they can't seem to finish a practice unmolested. First, two youngsters fired .22 caliber rifles while supposedly shooting at birds. Then a bee swarm attacked the team and routed them from the field.

MORE THAN 200 surfers will compete Saturday and Sunday in the Pacific Beach Surfing Championship in San Diego. Eighty-five boys in the 14 and under division, the largest field ever in that division in the U.S., will compete.

SAN DIEGO Padres' Ricardo Joseph was picked the PCL's most valuable player Friday after the 28-year-old outfielder led the Padres to the pennant with a .300 batting average. Joseph also collected 96 RBI, 24 home runs and 10 stolen bases.

BILL TUCKER of Los Angeles averaged 223 a game Friday to take the opening lead in the Professional Bowlers Assn. $27,500 New Orleans Open.

DENNIS HULME of New Zealand broke a lap record Friday to set the pace for the Chevron Grand Prix in New York. Driving a Chevrolet-powered McLaren Mark 6A, Hulme turned the 2.85 mile lap in 1:29.8 minutes for a speed of 114.11 mph.

MILLIONAIRE singer Bing Crosby heads a group that has bought a minority interest in the California Seals of the National Hockey League.

STAN SMITH and Cliff Richey scored victories for the U.S. Friday in the U.S.-Australian Davis Cup exhibition matches in Midland, Tex.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State has an awesome scoring machine ready to roll again this fall.

Graduation riddled the defense, however, and Coach Duffy Daugherty is as busy as a Dutch boy trying to plug 11 holes in a leaky dike.

"We haven't got the fellows with the weight this year," said Daugherty, referring to the loss of such defensive heavyweights as Bubba Smith and George Webster. "We're not going to be able to overpower opponents."

DAUGHERTY hopes to do the defensive job with a lighter, faster line. The line will average out at 217 pounds, 12 pounds per man less than last year.

Tody Smith, "baby brother" of Bubba, and the squat giant at 6-foot-5 and 269 pounds, has a foot injury and can't be figured on as a regular.

An early test of the patched-up defense will come next Saturday when the Spartans open against Houston, the team that led the nation in total offense last fall.

The Spartans, ranked third in the pre-season polls behind Notre Dame and Alabama, worked with the efficiency of the Green Bay Packers in producing touchdowns in early scrimmages. The top offense ran up 10 touchdowns against the reserves the last time out.

DAUGHERTY has said he wouldn't trade Jimmy Raye, his senior signal-caller for any quarterback in the country.

Two years ago, at a time when most sophomores would still be calling the seniors Sir, Raye was running the team in the Rose Bowl and nearly succeeded in saving the 14-12 loss to UCLA.

Raye passed for 1,110 yards and ran for an even more impressive 436 yards last year. He gives the opposition fits on the option play, scouting for yardage like a scabback when he spots an opening or sees his receivers cover d.

Bob Ap... 218-pound senior from Hawaii, and Regis Cavenger, 195-pound junior from Detroit, gave State a one-two punch at fullback. Cavenger has come along so strong he often is used at halfback.

10 Fillies Chase $100,000 at Atlantic City

Combined News Services

The class of the grass course performers, Handsome Boy, a leading candidate for surprise of the year honors, and the best of older fillies and mares will be in action today in the top thoroughbred races.

The grass course specialists, nine from the United States and one from France, race in the 13-16-mile, $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City with first place worth $65,000 and no entry fee.

The track pays the entire purse in this invitation-affair.

Mrs. Raymond Bauer's classy Vale of Tears, a terror among sprinters in the hinterlands this year, will attempt to pick up top-weight of 124 pounds versus five swift rivals today in the 16th running of the $100,000-added Governor's Cup, initial Saturday feature of the 1967 Los Angeles County Fairgrounds racing season.

Post-time is 12 noon.

Vale of Tears, unbeaten in his last five outings, will be opposed in the six-furlong sprint by Sledge, winner of the Governor's Cup in 1963, Poona Khan, Het's Cadet, Fleet Treat and Roman Heirless.

Handsome Boy, who boasts successive victories in the Haskell, Brooklyn and Washington Park Handicaps with a decision over the great Buckpasser in the Brooklyn, picks up highweight of 123 pounds in the $100,000-added Michigan Mile and One-Eighth at Detroit.

The 1 1/4-mile, $75,000-added Beldame at Aqueduct brings the fillies and mares into action with the hard-running Straight Deal, the flashy Alabama winner, Gamely, and such other stakes winners as Sweet Folly and Politely in the field of nine or 10.

Shenow, who is expected to challenge Queen of the Stage for 2-year-old filly honors in the rich Gardenia at Garden State Park Nov. 11, is the even money choice to whip the best of the Midwest juvenile mis-

Under a well-rated ride by Jockey Donald Pierce, Silver Rullah easily withstood the late bid of Bye Bye Barabzon to tally by 2 1/4 lengths. Amaloma was third and Ellen Gruder, the 2-1 favorite, fourth in the field of eight three-year-old fillies.

Silver Rullah, a daughter of Ballyrullah and Mommie's Mare, negotiated the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:47.2-5 and returned $10.55 and $4.60. Bye Bye Barabzon paid $4.60 and $3.40 and Amaloma returned $6.

Hawks Trip Vikes on Eight Fumbles

By DAVE DANIEL

Long Beach City College, plagued by eight fumbles, dropped a 4-1 scrimmage decision to Harbor Friday afternoon on the Hawks' field.

The Vikings, trying to muster a ground attack, saw five of the bobbles recovered by Harbor and had to settle for its lone touchdown through the air—a 52 yard pass from freshman Dennis Dummit to Sam Gipson.

Dummit was the only bright spot in the Vikings' attack. The all-city player from Wilson, who started over sore-armed Bob Stewart, completed eight of 12 passes, including his first six in a row. He also had two intercepted.

The ground game was confined for the most part to short gains by the Harbor defense. The Vikes made 13 first downs, but only three came on the ground. Harbor had 15 first downs.

Fullback Brent Gilman and halfback Gipson did most of the Vikings' running and it was Gipson who had the longest run from scrimmage—35 yards.

The Viking defense was penetratable only through the air as Harbor also had a tough time moving the ball on the ground. All of the Hawk touchdowns came on long passes ranging from 25 to 55 yards. The Vikings picked off 2 Hawk aeri-

Archer's 66 Leads Golf Classic by 3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — George Archer shot six birdies to take a three-stroke lead in the second round of the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic with a six-under-par 66 Friday.

Archer, a 6-foot-6 pro from Gilroy, Calif., came from three strokes off the pace to grab the lead with a 36-hole total of 134, 10-under-par.

This put him three strokes ahead of Billy Casper, the former U.S. Open champion, who was in the clubhouse with a 69-68—137 when Archer finished.

Four strokes back of Archer was Australian Bruce Devlin, the first round leader, who moaned he had not been in contention for "so bloody long." He didn't know how to act and slipped to a one over-par for a 65-73—138 card at Whitmarsh Country Club.

Bunched at 139 were Doug Ford, 71-68; Master's champion Gay Brewer, 68-71; New Zealand's Bob Charles, 68-71; and Dan Sikes, 71-68 while Dave

Whitworth Shares Lead With Barnett

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Kathy Whitworth, the leading money winner on the women's pro golf tour, and Pam Barnett each scored a three-under par 68 Friday to take the first round lead of the 54-hole Shirley Englehorn Invitational golf tournament.

Sharing third place at 70 were Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Tex., and Mary Mills of Ocean Springs, Miss. Miss Englehorn was one of three who hit par-71.

The others were Susie Maxwell of Pasadena, and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C. Hitting 72s were LPGA veteran Carol Mann, Buffalo, N.Y., and Jo Ann Prentice of Birmingham, Ala.

Doria Puts Delay to America's Cup

New York Times Service

NEWPORT, R.I. — Winds of gale force Friday, the prospect of more of the same today and the threat of Hurricane Doria's big fist in the background led to a postponement of today's fourth sailing match for the America's Cup.

Intrepid, the United States defender, and Dame Pattie, Australia's challenger, were hauled out on marine railways for routine maintenance operations. They will remain out of reach of high water if Doria becomes more than a threat.

No racing was scheduled for Friday. Jack Sturrock, Dame Pattie's skipper, had requested a day off Thursday after his yacht's third straight defeat. She had fared badly in winds of over 15 knots twice and a forecast of more strong wind led him to hope that Saturday would be milder.

At 4:30 p.m., Harry Anderson, chairman of the New York Yacht Club's race committee, announced that the fourth race, which may clinch a successful defense in the best-of-seven series, would be postponed. He said the decision was reached after a conference with Capt. Richard E. Hoover, commander of the U.S. Coast Guard patrol.

The threatened approach of Hurricane Doria not only would affect the competing yachts, he said, but also might send the Coast Guard vessels to other duty.

While Anderson did not say so, a consideration for early postponement also may have been giving advance notice to possible week-end spectator vessels that might contemplate visiting Newport for the race that the schedule was changed.

If weather permits, the next match will be Sunday.

THE STAR GETS WORD: GO TO BED!

BALTIMORE (AP) — During the National Football League exhibition season of night games, coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts received a letter asking him to play substitute quarterback Jim Ward in the first half instead of the second.

The writer said he had to go to bed before the second half. The letter came from a 9-year-old nephew of Ward.

Youth Boxing Card Tonight at Seaside Gym

The first Long Beach Youth Boxing Show, designed to prepare young men for the Senior Golden Gloves Tournament in January, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Seaside Gym, located across the street from Long Beach Arena.

Fourteen bouts are carded, ranging from heavyweight to bantamweight events. Three matches will feature youngsters between the ages of 10-12. A special bout will showcase Butch Mooney of Long Beach, 1967 Jr. Golden Gloves 65-75 division champion.

The program is being staged by a Long Beach group which includes Harold Gunn, Bill Field, Mack Kurihara, Ernie De France, Vic Kostjuk, Roy Martinez, George Vasilou and Sonny Ray.

Cannon Sends Cal Lutheran to Grid Date

BURBANK (CNS) — The football season at California Lutheran College started with a bang — or, more properly, a boom.

Faculty and student rooters gathered with the football team as it prepared to board a chartered plane for Tacoma, Wash., at the Hollywood-Burbank airport.

And, as the team boarded the plane, a cannon was fired to boost the players' morale in the upcoming game with Pacific Lutheran University.

Students at the Thousand Oaks college, now in its seventh year, acquired the cannon to fire at football games when the team scores a touchdown.

It was the first time the cannon had been fired in public although at a test firing early this week on the school campus, one student remarked, "We thought the noise would flatten the gym."

GALS GALLOP ON BEACH

More than 250 girls from throughout California, ranging in age from six to 40, will compete today in the Long Beach Comets Invitational.

Meet director Ron Allie has scheduled several events, the feature a two-mile run from the Belmont Pier beach headquarters to Cherry Ave. and return.

They'll be off and running at 5 p.m.

Dr. Kiddie in Line for Post on Committee for Aging

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Dr. Thomas Kiddie, director of laboratories at St. Mary's Hospital since 1951 and the current president of the Long Beach Medical Association, is expected to be named to the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Aging by Gov. Ronald Reagan, it has been learned.

The committee is charged with the responsibility to study all aspects of the problems of aging and to make recommendations to the governor for needed action. The committee also works with other departments and agencies of state government so that the resources of the state can be used in behalf of senior citizens.

Dr. Kiddie's name was submitted to the governor by Assemblyman James A. Hayes. Sen. Joseph M. Kennick served on the committee for six years while he was an assemblyman, giving up the post last Jan. 1.
